Budget Highlights

August, 2023

Changes to Budget Presentation

Brief review of column 5 in Budget Report: For income, a black number means we have received more revenue than expected, a red number means we have received less revenue than expected. For expenses, a black number means we have spent less than expected, and a red number means we have spent more than expected.

This is the second report of the new Fiscal Year 2023-24.

The financial audit continues to make progress.

The Agency received additional tax revenue that was attributable to the previous fiscal year. Though the deposit report shows tax income, it will not appear in the budget report because it belongs to FY 2022-23.

Typically, the Agency does not receive tax revenue until November, so there will still be another budget report or two before tax income begins to be registered. On the other hand, water sales should begin to show up soon.

General Fund

Disbursements:

The main items that look over budget in this month are items that are spent irregularly throughout the year, like insurance, and dues. The majority of items show a zero, because invoices for services have not been received. Salaries and Employee Benefits are beginning to fall in line with normally expected trends.

Dues and Assessments, Building Maintenance and Repair, SAWPA Regional Projects, and Sponsorships are paid in spurts, rather than evenly throughout the year.

Consigned – SWP Support Fund

Revenue:

Interest income is higher than expected but will vary as the balances of the funds change throughout the year.

Debt Service Fund

Disbursements:

SWC dues have been paid, and no additional payment is expected for the rest of the fiscal year. State Water Contract Payments is another line item that has uneven payments. The large EBX payment will be made in September, so will be over-budget on a monthly basis at that time.

Gap Funding Program

As mentioned at the Board meeting on September 11, the Agency received a major payment from Cabazon Water District in September. Gap Funding activity for FY 22-23 resulted in a receivable balance, so even though the payment will show up in the deposit report for September, it will not show up in the budget report because it is attributable to FY 22-23 activity. The budget report shows current fiscal year activity of a disbursement, which was expected and within budget.
